

What is claimed is:

1. A golf club head comprising:
 - a primary body of a first material;
 - said primary body defining an opening;
 - a cover of a second material unsuitable for welding with said primary body covering said opening;
 - said cover having a periphery; and
 - a reinforcing edge mask having a first portion bonded to and at least partially covering the periphery of said cover; and
 - said reinforcing edge mask having a second portion secured to said primary body.